

The Maserati Quattroporte is the Best Saloon for the readers of Auto Motor und Sport

Thursday, 5 February 2004

Yet another award for the Maserati Quattroporte designed by Pininfarina. After a well-known British magazine included it among the 100 Most Beautiful Things in the World, after it received the title of "Most beautiful Car in the World", and after the Italian motoring monthly Quattroruote voted it the best "flagship" around, Maserati's new sporty saloon has now won a prestigious award in the land of its fiercest competition: Germany. Auto Motor und Sport, the best known and most influential German motoring magazine, has awarded the Quattroporte the title of Best Car in the imported "Luxury Sedan" category.

The poll carried out every year among readers of the magazine put the Quattroporte in the lead with over 28% of the votes. The prize was presented in Stuttgart on February 4, to Antonello Perricone, Maserati Managing Director, accompanied by the Chairman of Pininfarina, Sergio Pininfarina, and the General Manager of Ferrari Maserati, Amedeo Felisa.
