

Pininfarina and Calligaris launch the new Orbital table

Milan, October 6, 2011 - On the occasion of the Milano Design Weekend, Calligaris opens the doors of its Milan showroom to the great tradition of the project and meets Paolo Pininfarina to launch the Orbital table and to make a workshop on overall design, "From dream cars to the everyday life objects: the thousand aspects of Pininfarina design".

A blend of progressive design and technology is the hallmark of the Orbital extendible table designed by Pininfarina for Calligaris, the leading home design group that has invented an ingenious opening mechanism. Thanks to its fluid lines and the materials used, the Orbital table will be a scenic presence within the home, the real focal point of the dining room area.

The rigid polyurethane base, painted black or white, provides an extremely stable structure, while the large central aperture creates a sensation of lightness and character. The new extra-clear glass top means that the ingenious opening mechanism with metal arms is in full view. This clean-lined, minimalist structure supports the two glass leaves that open up simultaneously from below with a fluid circular movement.

When open the table can seat ten. All metal parts are painted using the new Matt Silver finish that adds a further highly decorative touch. The Orbital table will be a scenic presence within the home, the real focal point of the dining room area.
