

At the Frankfurt Motor Show with the 458 Speciale the historical cooperation between Ferrari and Pininfarina

Torino, 9 September 2013 – At the Frankfurt Motor Show, opening tomorrow, a new sports car born from the historical cooperation between Ferrari and Pininfarina will make its debut, the Ferrari 458 Speciale.

The new mid-rear-engined V8 berlinetta was designed to boost both performance and driving emotion to unprecedented levels, yet simultaneously guarantee smooth, effortless control in all kinds of situations.

The 458 Speciale is the latest product of Ferrari's core philosophy of extreme technological innovation and research which, in this instance, has yielded powertrain, aerodynamics and vehicle dynamics advances that transform the already exceptional 458 Italia into a car genuinely worthy of the "Speciale" moniker. The result is a completely new, uncompromising, streamlined sports car concept.

Aerodynamic requirements guided the work of the Ferrari Style Centre who, in collaboration with Pininfarina, sculpted the car's forms to ensure they were more performance-oriented than ever. The most notable features in this sense are the front and rear movable aerodynamics which balance downforce and cut drag, thus helping make the 458 Speciale the most aerodynamically efficient range production car in Ferrari history (E Index of 1.5).
